GREENSTONE

Greenstone approached Pro AV to complete the full AV deployment and provide support for five years for their new building in Sydney.

Working in collaboration with the industry-renowned consultant, Matt Loupis from Innova-Tech, the design met each and every need of the customer to a tee and was still budget-friendly. For Pro AV this meant we were set up for success right from the beginning.

Along with Innova-Tech, Pro AV Solutions worked closely with our furniture partner Profile Systems who delivered the stunning furniture that fit perfectly into the aesthetics of the design, as well as working closely with the builders JDV.

Through Pro AV and our finance partners, Greenstone were able to sign up for a five-year lease which included the full installation as well as a five-year comprehensive support program

As a large insurance company, Greenstone prides themselves on not just being an innovative company but being a great company to work at, and the aim was for the new building to reflect their core values.

By deploying Crestron Flex hardware that was tried and tested by our engineering team and known for its stability in the market, we were able to provide Greenstone with their perfect meeting rooms. The team at Greenstone can simply invite the meeting room to each meeting which books the room out, and then using the touch panel on the tables, select 'Join' and the whole room joins the Microsoft Teams meeting.

Wireless connectivity is also available in the room so the staff can easily connect without all the cables scattered around the room.

Team culture is evident from the minute you step into the Greenstone building. It was such a critical brief for all partners to bring this to life in the new building. The cafeteria is warm and welcoming and with Samsung digital signage, they can regularly update their menu easily. Up on the Terrace, you have a large LED display visible from all angles of the large open space, with pendulum speakers spread neatly throughout the area so the audio coverage is optimal.

Finally, the gym that is available to all staff for their health and wellbeing is fit with display screens with IPTV, touch panels to adjust and change any audio as well as the pendulum speakers.

By enabling technology in all of these unique spaces in the office, the Greenstone team are able to be fully engaged and united and is a great example of a positive "people first" working environment.
